

RM Books partners with Pan Macmillan to make ebooks available to UK schools

RM Education, the UK's leading education technology supplier, is delighted to announce that ebooks from Pan Macmillan, UK Publisher of the Year, are now available to UK schools through their dedicated school ebook platform, RM Books.

Pan Macmillan's authors available in ebook through RM Books include children's favourites Chris Riddell, Eva Ibbotson and Andy Griffiths, as well as the poet Brian Moses.

"We are delighted to be working with Pan Macmillan," said Alan Hodgin, Head of RM Books. "The Pan Macmillan list is a great list, with best-selling authors and classic titles that no school library should be without. We are also delighted that Pan Macmillan is supporting our range of licences and rental terms. We are very proud of the fact that RM Books is the only ebook platform that has been designed specifically to support and enhance the ways that teachers use books to promote literacy and reading for pleasure; our range of licences and rental terms are a key aspect of that."

RM Books delivers practical, flexible, affordable solutions that help primary and secondary schools provide access to books for all their students. It carries a comprehensive range of textbooks, topic books and fiction ebooks from educational and trade publishers, large and small. Teachers can allocate books to individuals or groups, or create an engaging whole school e-library, while additional reporting and annotation functions allow them to track reading progress, check comprehension and enrich their students' learning experience.

"We are delighted to partner with RM Books in order to help school librarians and teachers to spread the joy of reading for pleasure," said Anna Bond, UK Sales Director at Pan Macmillan. "We hope that the platform will allow school students to try new authors as well as enjoy their favourite books inside and outside the classroom."

Pan Macmillan, named Publisher of the Year at The Bookseller Industry Awards in 2015 and again in 2017, has long been a supporter of educators across the UK. It works closely with schools for high profile author events and Patron of Reading schemes, as well as communicating with teachers and educationalists directly, from Reception through to A Level. Pan Macmillan enjoys relationships with NATE (National Association for Teaching English), ASCEL (Association of Senior Children's and Education Librarians) and the SLA (School Libraries Association) and is a key sponsor of the annual School Librarian of the Year Award and Pupil Library Assistant of the Year Award.
